CAÑAS, GUANACASTE - COSTA RICA

50 Years Ago...

THE RESCUE OF WILDLIFE BEGAN

In the 1960s, a Swiss couple, Werner Hagnauer and Lilly Bodmer moved to Cañas, Guanacaste. While he was in charge of the cattle farm Hacienda La Pacífica, she rescued the wild animals that people have taken from their natural habitat to keep them illegally as pets. She also received injured wildlife.

The Hagnauers sold the farm in 1985 but kept a small piece of land and built what is now today the Rescue Shelter Las Pumas. In 2003, Lilly passed away and the family founded the Hagnauer Foundation to continue with her magnificent work of wildlife conservation. In 2015, Werner passes away with 92 years old, leaving us a great legacy. 🐾
